More Information

The artwork consists of a light blue background with various elements of torn paper and paint. In the upper left, there are several pieces of torn paper in shades of blue, white, and orange. Below these, there are more pieces of torn paper, some in yellow and green, and others in a mottled brown and black. There are also some pinkish-red splatters or smudges on the left side of the composition. The overall effect is one of layered, fragmented textures.
